RACE TO 218: HOUSE CLIMATE BILL

E&E Daily analyzed the positions of the 435 House lawmakers expected to debate a comprehensive climate bill. Projections are for final passage of a cap-and-trade proposal. Positions outlined here are based on interviews with congressmen, plus dozens of Democratic and Republican sources, industry and environmental groups. It also factors in sponsorships of previous cap-and-trade bills, signature on Democratic leadership's global warming principles and a 2007 House floor vote on climate change. E&E will update this breakdown as the debate unfolds.
